

News letter

Workpackage 2 is in the bag!

Thematic Approach and Content Development

1 Need Analysis 3 Lesson Plans

In our quest to enhance cultural heritage education, our project, 'Codes of Cultural Heritage,' embarked on a comprehensive needs analysis journey. Through extensive research, we uncovered a shared desire among schools, students, teachers, trainers, museums, and cultural organizations for more time dedicated to cultural heritage, a thirst for digital tools integration, and a hunger for outdoor learning experiences. Armed with these valuable insights, our project is committed to addressing these needs head-on. We're crafting innovative solutions that not only make cultural heritage learning more accessible but also seamlessly incorporate digital tools and provide enriching outdoor opportunities.

In the dynamic second phase of 'Codes of Cultural Heritage,' our project which consists of seven partners from six different countries—Romania, Türkiye, Belgium, Portugal, Bulgaria, and Italy, set up expert teams who delved into the heart of cultural education as part of workpackage 2. We collaboratively crafted over 30 lesson plans across seven vibrant hubs—Food, Customs and Traditions, Music and Dance, Technology, Museum, Artifact, and Language—specifically tailored for the age group of 11-15. The beauty of these plans lies in our collective effort. By harnessing the diverse expertise of our six-country, seven-partner team, we've created a comprehensive and engaging learning experience. It's exciting to witness teachers already implementing these lessons in their classrooms.

2 Didactical Framework

In the heartbeat of our project's evolution, we dedicated nearly four months to sculpting a robust didactical design—an intricately woven framework that serves as the compass for the 'Codes of Cultural Heritage.' This meticulous process has laid the groundwork for the entire venture, ensuring a well-structured and purposeful journey ahead.

Every aspect of our project, from content creation to implementation, is guided by this thoughtful design. It's the backbone that breathes life into our educational endeavors. As we move forward, we carry the essence of these months of dedication, confident that our didactical framework will not only shape but elevate the cultural learning experience for students, teachers, and enthusiasts alike. The foundation is set; let the cultural exploration unfold!

